NEW QUESTION: 2

Regarding TDM eICIC, which of the following descriptions are correct? (Multiple choice)

- A. CSI-RS enables more resources in the system to be used for data transmission, improving the performance of Micro cell users in the TDM solution.
- B. CRE can preferentially switch to the Micro cell, thereby expanding the coverage of the Micro cell.

C. ABS only sends a very small number of signals or channels, so the interference of such subframes to the neighboring area is significantly lower than that of normal subframes.

D. ABS, CRE and CSI-RS technologies are used in the TDM eICIC solution

Answer: B,D

NEW QUESTION: 3

Refer to the exhibit.

An engineer must ensure that all traffic leaving AS 200 will choose Link 2 as the exit point. Assuming that all BGP neighbor relationships have been formed and that the attributes have not been changed on any of the routers, which configuration accomplish task?

A. R3(config-router)neighbor 10.1.1.1 weight 200

B. R3(config-router)bgp default local-preference 200

C. R4(config-router)nighbor 10.2.2.2 weight 200

D. R4(config-router)bgp default local-preference 200

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation

Local preference is an indication to the AS about which path has preference to exit the AS in order to reach a certain network. A path with a higher local preference is preferred. The default value for local preference is 100.

Unlike the weight attribute, which is only relevant to the local router, local preference is an attribute that routers exchange in the same AS. The local preference is set with the "bgp default local-preference value" command.

In this case, both R3 & R4 have exit links but R4 has higher local-preference so R4 will be chosen as the preferred exit point from AS 200.

NEW QUESTION: 4

You are a domain administrator for your company.

Since the company's Windows 8.1 desktop computers are not backed up regularly, the company wants to enable folder redirection in order to move data from local desktops to network storage.

You need to configure folder redirection on the domain so all existing desktops and any new desktops automatically apply the folder redirection settings.

What should you do?

A. Map a network drive from each local desktop, right-click Properties, and choose Folder Redirection with proper settings.

B. In computer management, create a task that is labeled Folder Redirection. Allow Folder Redirection to the specified path at named intervals.

C. Create a new Group Policy Object (GPO) and configure the folder redirection options to meet your company's requirements.

D. Sync your offline folder to the network location to ensure that backups are completed on the network.

Answer: C

User settings and user files are typically stored in the local user profile, under the Users folder. The files in local user profiles can be accessed only from the current computer, which makes it difficult for users who use more than one computer to work with their data and synchronize settings between multiple computers. Two technologies exist to address this problem: Roaming Profiles and Folder Redirection. Both technologies have their advantages, and they can be used separately or together to create a seamless user experience from one computer to another. They also provide additional options for administrators managing user data. Folder Redirection lets administrators redirect the path of a folder to a new location. The location can be a folder on the local computer or a directory on a network file share. Users can work with documents on a server as if the documents were based on a local drive. The documents in the folder are available to the user from any computer on the network. Folder Redirection is located under Windows Settings in the console tree when you edit domain-based Group Policy by using the Group Policy Management Console (GPMC). The path is [Group Policy Object Name]User ConfigurationPoliciesWindows SettingsFolder Redirection
