Web Roles and Worker Roles can directly communicate with each other. However, a more common pattern is to use a reliable messaging system such as Azure Service Bus Queue to pass messages between them.

Cloud service role: A cloud service role is comprised of application files and a configuration. A cloud service can have two types of role:

web role: A web role provides a dedicated Internet Information Services (IIS) web-server used for hosting front-end web applications.

worker role: Applications hosted within worker roles can run asynchronous, long-running or perpetual tasks independent of user interaction or input
