NEW QUESTION: 1

You are a network consultant. You are contracted by Cisco to subnet their network. You want to document the existing Cisco network.

Which two Cisco router services can assist in documenting the existing network? (Choose all that apply.)

- A. CDP
- B. NetMon
- C. MRTG
- D. NetFlow
- E. SNMP MIB compiler

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

A. CDP is a media- and protocol-independent protocol that runs on all Cisco-manufactured equipment including routers, bridges, access and communication servers, and switches. Using CDP, you can view information about all the Cisco devices directly attached to the switch. In addition, CDP detects native VLAN and port duplex mismatches. Network management applications can retrieve the device type and SNMP-agent address of neighboring Cisco devices using CDP. This allows applications to send SNMP queries to neighboring devices. CDP allows network management applications to discover Cisco devices that are neighbors of already known devices, in particular, neighbors running lower-layer, transparent protocols.

D. NetFlow services consist of high-performance IP switching features that capture a rich set of traffic statistics exported from routers and switches while they perform their switching functions Incorrect Answers B: Multi -Router Traffic Grapher is used to monitor the level of activity on network links.MRTG generates reports in HTML pages that contain Portable Network Graphic (PNG) images that portray a visual look at the traffic on a link.

C,E: These are not related to network traffic analysis.

NEW QUESTION: 2

Similar to Secure Shell (SSH-2), Secure Sockets Layer (SSL) uses symmetric encryption for encrypting the bulk of the data being sent over the session and it uses asymmetric or public key cryptography for:

- A. Peer Authentication
- B. Server Authentication
- C. Name Resolution
- D. Peer Identification

Answer: A

Explanation:

SSL provides for Peer Authentication. Though peer authentication is possible, authentication of the client is seldom used in practice when connecting to public e-commerce web sites. Once authentication is complete, confidentiality is assured over the session by the use of symmetric encryption in the interests of better performance.

The following answers were all incorrect: "Peer identification" is incorrect. The desired attribute is assurance of the identity of the communicating parties provided by authentication and NOT identification. Identification is only who you claim to be. Authentication is proving who you claim to be. "Server authentication" is incorrect. While server authentication only is common practice, the protocol provides for peer authentication (i.e., authentication of both client and server). This answer was not complete. "Name resolution" is incorrect. Name resolution is commonly provided by the Domain Name System (DNS) not SSL.
