NEW QUESTION: 1

Which of the following questions is LESS likely to help in assessing controls over hardware and software maintenance?

- A. Is there version control?
- B. Are system components tested, documented, and approved prior to promotion to production?
- C. Is access to all program libraries restricted and controlled?
- D. Are integrity verification programs used by applications to look for evidences of data tampering, errors, and omissions?

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

Hardware and software maintenance access controls are used to monitor the installation of, and updates to, hardware and software to ensure that the system functions as expected and that a historical record of changes is maintained. Integrity verification programs are more integrity controls than software maintenance controls.

Incorrect Answers:

A: Restricting and controlling access to all program libraries is part of controlling hardware and software maintenance. Asking about this will help in assessing controls over hardware and software maintenance.

C: Version control is part of controlling hardware and software maintenance. Asking about this will help in assessing controls over hardware and software maintenance.

D: Testing, documenting and approval of system components is part of controlling hardware and software maintenance. Asking about this will help in assessing controls over hardware and software maintenance.
