NEW QUESTION: 1

You have just been assigned to test a native mobile application for a delivery recording device used by mail and package couriers. This is a new version of a product that is already in production. The production version of the product has had issues with the hardware particularly with capturing signatures entered on the device and with associating photo images to the proper delivery addresses. This has resulted in a problem with reconciling the package delivery information. You need to test the application on a network with 1000 of these devices sending information back to the main office. Budget is limited as is the ability to obtain 1000 devices.

What should you do?

- A. Find or develop a simulator that can simulate the network interaction of many devices
- B. Implement crowd-source testing to get a large number of people to use their own devices to test the network
- C. Obtain the real devices because any other testing will not be representative of the real behavior of the device
- D. Find or develop an emulator that can emulate the application running on the hardware and OS of the device

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

Given this scenario, B is the correct answer. An emulator will allow testing to be conducted to verify the interaction between the hardware/OS and the application and that's where the main problems have been.

A is not correct because a simulator will not be able to simulate the interaction between the application and the hardware and that is identified as a key issue with the current production product. C is not correct because this is not a device that most people would have access to - it's a business device rather than a personal device. D is not correct because a good emulator should be able to provide the needed test environment. And, the question states that budget is limited and devices are hard to get.

NEW QUESTION: 3

Identify an application that polls AWS Data Pipeline for tasks and then performs those tasks.

A. A task optimizer

B. A task deployer

C. A task runner

D. A task executor

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

A task runner is an application that polls AWS Data Pipeline for tasks and then performs those tasks. You can either use Task Runner as provided by AWS Data Pipeline, or create a custom Task Runner application.

Task Runner is a default implementation of a task runner that is provided by AWS Data Pipeline. When Task Runner is installed and configured, it polls AWS Data Pipeline for tasks associated with pipelines that you have activated. When a task is assigned to Task Runner, it performs that task and reports its status back to AWS Data Pipeline. If your workflow requires non-default behavior, you'll need to implement that functionality in a custom task runner.
