NEW QUESTION: 2

Which question below is NOT accurate regarding the process of risk assessment?

- A. The level of impact of a threat must be determined as an element of the risk assessment.
- B. The likelihood of a threat must be determined as an element of the risk assessment.
- C. Risk assessment is the first process in the risk management methodology
- D. Risk assessment is the final result of the risk management methodology.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Risk is a function of the likelihood of a given threat-source's exercising a particular potential vulnerability, and the resulting impact of that adverse event on the organization. Risk assessment is the first process in the risk management methodology. The risk assessment process helps organizations identify appropriate controls for reducing or eliminating risk during the risk mitigation process.

To determine the likelihood of a future adverse event, threats to an IT system must be analyzed in conjunction with the potential vulnerabilities and the controls in place for the IT system. The likelihood that a potential vulnerability could be exercised by a given threatsource can be described as high, medium, or low. Impact refers to the magnitude of harm that could be caused by a threat's exploitation of a vulnerability. The determination of the level of impact produces a relative value for the IT assets and resources affected.
