Answer: A,C,E

NEW QUESTION: 2

You have a SharePoint Server 2010 server farm. You have a Web Application that contains the following site collections:

-A site named Corp that has a document library named Docs

-A site named Records that was created by using the Records Center site templates You need to ensure that users can route document sets from Docs to the Drop Off Library in Records. What should you do?

- A. Create a content organizer rule for the Document Set content type in Records.
- B. Create a content organizer rule for the Document Set content type in Corp.
- C. From Document Library Settings, set the Custom Send To Destination value to the URL of the Drop Off Library.
- D. From Central Administration, modify the Configure Send To Connections settings for the Web Application.

Answer: C

Explanation:

BURGOS MNEMO: "Custom Send To Destination value to the URL of the Drop Off Library"
@Jorbes User interaction is required here, since users "route" the documents to the drop off library. Content Organizers follow rules and move documents themselves. Also, answer A does not specify the Docs library, so it would apply to the entire site collection, which is not desired.

NEW QUESTION: 3
